DETAILED ACTION

Receipt is acknowledged of applicant's amendment filed 12/10/09.

Election/Restrictions

1. Newly submitted claims 27 and 28 are directed to an invention that is independent or distinct from the invention originally claimed for the following reasons: Claim 27 includes the limitations “an abutment adapted to restrain the substrate while the apparatus for moving said gripper continues to move said gripper along said axis to break the ball off the substrate, and a force measuring apparatus configured to measure the force required to break the ball off the substrate” of which are new with respect to the originally presented claims. Claim 28 includes the limitations “continuing to move the test tool while still gripping the ball to break the ball off the substrate and measuring the force required to break the ball off the substrate” of which are new with respect to the originally presented claims.

Since applicant has received an action on the merits for the originally presented invention, this invention has been constructively elected by original presentation for prosecution on the merits. Accordingly, claims 16 – 28 are withdrawn from consideration as being directed to a non-elected invention. See 37 CFR 1.142(b) and MPEP § 821.03.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Art Unit: 2855

3. Claims 11 – 14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Anderson et al (5,401,911).

Regarding claim 11, Anderson et al disclose formations of connections between layers and substrates comprising gripping a conductive ball 16 with a test tool 12 (See Fig. 1), moving the ball in a direction substantially orthogonal to the plane of adherence of the ball while whilst urging a substrate 100, through a moving action of the flow of the material substrate, against the ball and abruptly halting the substrate as the movement of the ball is stopped (See Col. 6, lines 46 – 67 and Col. 7, lines 30 – 41).

Regarding claim 12, the substrate is attached to a platen 14, whereby the platen is abruptly halted, thereby indirectly halting the substrate (See Fig. 2).

Regarding claims 13 and 14, a pneumatic ram or driver 18 aids in moving the substrate against the ball, and applies air under pressure to the driver in an amount sufficient to ensure a compressive load between the ball and substrate up to the time when the substrate is abruptly halted (See Col. 6, lines 18 – 26).

Response to Arguments

4. Applicant's arguments, on Pg. 8, lines 6 – 11, with respect to these claims have been considered but are moot in view of the new grounds of rejection.

Conclusion

5. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

Benenati et al (6,358,627) disclose a rolling ball connector.

Schmidt (5,948,997) discloses a swaged connection testing apparatus.

Art Unit: 2855
